A Few Fine Positions in the Department of Justice.

WHAT THEY ARE WORTH.

Prospects Not Flattering for Aspirants for Consular Positions—Condition of the National Banks—A Few Appointments By the Pres. and Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—There are some fine positions to be given out in the department of justice, among them a number of assistant attorneys and special attorneys who represent the United States in suits in the supreme court and in the court of claims. The emoluments of these offices vary from $2,500 to $6,000 a year. Applicants for these places have been pressing Attorney General Miller pretty hard lately; but he has told them that he has decided not to make any changes until the close of the present term of the courts, which will be in May. The present incumbents of these places, he says, are familiar with the cases now before the courts and could do better service for the government at present than new men.

The prospects for aspirants for consular places, it is said at the state department, are not flattering. All the consular service under the direct charge of the new Assistant Secretary of State Wharton, and until he arrives nothing whatever will be done about it. When he is ready he will go all through the list of consuls, look up their records, see by whom they were appointed, how long and how well they have served and decide who shall be retained, and what vacancies shall be made. As to the political faith of the incumbents and the effect it will have upon their standing, only this is said: That where an ex-confederate soldier, a Democrat, is found occupying a place from which an ex-union soldier had been dismissed to make room for him, the ex-confederate Democrat will have to make room for a Republican.

Arms to Be Court-martialed.
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The inspector of the army has submitted to the adjutant general a report upon his investigation into the conduct of Maj. Armes. The inspector general prefers charges against Maj. Armes, and recommended that he be tried by a court-martial. Maj. Armes is charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman in falsely accusing Maj. Hestrom in regard to the trouble over the inauguration day parade, and of outrageous conduct in assaulting Governor Harter. The report was sent to Gen. Schenck. The general opinion is that a court-martial will be ordered in a day or two.

Condition of National Banks.
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Abstracts of the reports made to the comptroller of the currency show the condition of the National banks of the country on the 30th of last February, show among the resources of the banks loans and discounts, amounting to $1,093,475,133; loans to secure deposits, $16,735,201; loans to secure deposits, $16,735,201; loans to secure deposits, $182,281,803; and $88,624,800 in legal tender notes. Among the institutions are found: National bank notes issued, $37,216,130; surplus fund, $1,125,457,530; individual deposits, $1,374,957,457; and $71,390 United States deposits.

Protection to American Citizens.
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The secretary of state has been informed by the United States chargé d'affaires at St. Petersburg that due action has been taken at the request of this government for the liberation of Herman Kempinski, the American citizen arrested on December 21 last in Poland on a charge of having evaded military duty in Russia, of which country he was a native. There are features in this case that make it probable that a favorable answer may soon be returned by the Russian government.

Batty Frightened.
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Evett Hubbard, a member of the Governor's guard, of Annapolis, was arrested on manumission day, charged with shooting Chang Evans, colored. He was locked up in jail for ten days before bail was accepted. When the case came to trial yesterday Evans and six colored men, who witnessed the shooting, testified that they were too frightened to identify Evans' assailant. The judge said it was the most remarkable spectacle he had even seen, and he dismissed the prisoner.

Discharged Printers.
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The reduction of force at the government printing office, which always follows an adjournment of congress, took place yesterday, when about fifty employees were discharged. The discharges caused great commotion in the office, as is usual. There are to be a few more discharges from time to time until the number of employees corresponds with the amount of work.

Presidential Appointments.
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The president has decided to appoint Joel Erdman, collector of customs at New York, Cornelius Van-Cott will be appointed to succeed Postmaster Pearson. It is stated on excellent authority that other appointments to be filled offices in that city have not yet been decided upon.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The secretary of the navy has directed Capt. Matthews to witness and report upon the trial of the pneumatic dynamite gun carriage on the 6th inst., before the board appointed to witness its working at the naval proving ground, Annapolis.

The President's Callers.
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Among the president's callers yesterday was Robert T. Lincoln, the new minister to England, who came with Senator Culion. A delegation of ministers, representing the board of foreign missions, also called.

AT THE SUB-TROPICAL EXHIBITION.
The Cleveland Party Arrive at Jacksonville and Visit the Great Show.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 5.—The Cleveland party arrived here by steamer from Enterprise at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. They remained on the steamer until 8:30 when a long line of carriages containing a delegation of citizens drew up to the pier and escorted the visitors to breakfast at the St. James hotel. In front of Mr. Cleveland the table was a magnificent basket of flowers bearing the initials of Mrs. Cleveland. The ex-president seemed greatly pleased at this thoughtful compliment to his wife. The only lady at the breakfast were Mrs. H. B. Plant and Mrs. Alfred Bishop Mason.

Among others present were United States Judge Tolman, H. B. Blant, J. E. Ingram, W. K. Carter, C. B. Rogers, A. W. Cockrell and C. Merrill. No speeches or tents were offered at the breakfast, which was quite informal. After breakfast, the party were driven to the sub-tropical exhibition, where they spent half an hour very pleasantly. A drive about the city was then taken, and was greatly enjoyed by the entire party.

He Did Not Believe It

But a Tour of Investigation Convinced Him.

PROGRESS OF THE SOUTH.

The Flattering Prospects for the Future Growth and Wealth of the South Portrayed By a New York Banker.

BALTIMORE, April 5.—Frederick Taylor, the New York banker, who recently made a tour of investigation in the south with Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, Hon. Edward Cooper and others, has, in response to a request, reduced to writing for The Manufacturers' Record, the impressions made upon him with regard to the industrial condition and development of that section. Mr. Taylor says the trip was to him a revelation, for he had believed that the "new south" was a fallacy. "It seemed to me," he says, "that we traveled through a continuous and unbroken chain of what has aptly been termed the music of progress."

Mr. Taylor is evidently a Republican, for he says that he discovered "the coming disintegration of the solid south and the bringing about of a condition of politics that will be healthy," and goes on to say: "The most serious obstacle in the way of this consummation is the race problem. The question is one of which we of the north have but little understanding. To use it involves nothing beyond full play to the newly enfranchised race. To the southern people, however, I discovered that it means keeping the control of their local affairs in the hands of those who pay the taxes. I hold conversations with a number of thoughtful conservative men, and they discussed it in a most catholic spirit, but I concluded that, however the people of the south may be divided about other things, they will continue a unit with reference to this. Despite all theories as to colonization of the negroes elsewhere, they will continue, I think, to be scattered throughout the southern states. They can't get rid of. And I think it would be a calamity for the south to lose them. They constitute an element of docile, patient and hard labor, which is an important factor in the country's development."

Sheathed Vessels are the Best.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Naval officers who are advocates of sheathing modern steel war vessels with copper paint to the fact that Germany, in sending war vessels to Samoa, has selected the Alexandria and Spurber, both of which are sheathed vessels and can both in the tropical Samoan waters indefinitely without fouling. They say that if an unsheathed vessel like the Charleston or any of our new cruisers should be sent there they would be covered with barnacles three or four inches thick in a few months.

Emperor William Lament the Loss.

BERLIN, April 5.—Emperor William has issued an order in which he says that he laments the loss of the brave men at Samoa who perished in the recent hurricane, and hopes that their devotion will remain as a bright example to the navy. He expects that confidence in the navy will remain unshaken and that the plans for the navy may be carried to a successful development.

The Adams Not Ready to Sail.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The United States steamship Adams, now lying at San Francisco, will not be ready to sail for Samoa as soon as was expected. It was reported that she would be in good sailing order within ten days, but now it is said at the department that she will not be ready before May 1.

A Father's Fearful Crime.

PITTSBURGH, April 5.—During Wednesday night Edward Dietz, who resided with his wife and family on Craig street, East End, killed his 3-year-old daughter by almost severing her head from her body and then cut his own throat. Wednesday evening Dietz assaulted his wife, who made an impression against her husband at an attorney's office, and did not return to her home by his physician, Dr. St. Clair Smith. The two took a carriage and drove to the Player's club. Mr. Booth was in good spirits but not very robust. He took supper with the friends. Dr. Smith confirms the statement that Mr. Booth sustained a partial stroke of paralysis and that the attack was brought on by excessive smoking. He has directed the patient to remain in doors for a while, keeping quiet and resting. He thinks Mr. Booth will in this way regain his strength, and be able to resume his engagements.

Objection to a Temperance Law.

TORONTO, April 5.—Fifteen elections in Canada yesterday resulted in favor of the Canadian temperance act in each of the fifteen places.

Everyone Keeping Silent.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Edwin Booth arrived from Rochester at 7:20 p. m., and was met by his physician, Dr. St. Clair Smith. The two took a carriage and drove to the Player's club. Mr. Booth was in good spirits but not very robust. He took supper with the friends. Dr. Smith confirms the statement that Mr. Booth sustained a partial stroke of paralysis and that the attack was brought on by excessive smoking. The Calliope Safe.

England's War Vessel Escaped From the Samoan Storm.

SHE ARRIVES IN SYDNEY.

Captain Kane Relates How He Saved His Vessel—No Lives Lost—Emperor William Laments the Loss of Life in the Storm—Other Dispatches Relating to the Great Disaster.

AT THE SUB-TROPICAL EXHIBITION.
The Cleveland Party Arrive at Jacksonville and Visit the Great Show.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 5.—The British man-of-war Calliope which ran out of the hurricane at Samoa, and for whose safety fears have since been expressed, has arrived safely at this port. It transpires before the hurricane came off every precaution had been taken on the Calliope. Five anchors were dropped and everything made ready for a big blow. In the height of the storm the chains of four anchors snapped and the vessels commenced to drift.

Capt. Kane then determined to leave the harbor, where the danger of being thrown on the reefs was imminent, and reach, if possible, the open sea. This he eventually accomplished after a hard fight during which the vessel made only half a knot an hour. The seas that broke over the ship were tremendous, and did much damage.

The only effects of the accident belonging to the crew were a neat black portmanteau, a penknife and a bunch of keys. There is no doubt that the poor man was greatly reduced and unfortunate. He had complained of being weak and nervous, and took six drams of opium, which proved to be a bad dose.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide through insanity. Mr. Brooke, who was notified of the unfortunate man's death, has promised to defray the expenses of his burial and will not allow the body to be dissected.

The News at His Home.

BOSTON, April 5.—Regarding Rev. Charles Hurd, whose death by suicide is reported from London, it is learned that he left New York March 15th for London on business for the Northern Pacific Railroad company by whom he had been employed for several months in writing a book descriptive of Washington territory. His brother, Mr. S. O. Hurd, resides in Malden, Mass., and he discredits the theory of suicide. He says his brother left home in excellent health, and with excellent prospects. He has, however, been troubled with nervous pains, and has been in the habit of taking morphine to relieve them, and is believed by his brother that his death was due to an overdose of that drug. An engagement between Mr. Hurd and a young lady residing in Maplewood was recently broken off, and it is thought that perhaps this fact has something to do with his death, if he really died by his own hand.

Seeking Information.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The following is copied yesterday from the hydrographic office of the navy department: "The recent wrecks and loss of life in the harbor of Apia, Samoa Islands, have strongly emphasized the importance of collecting and publishing as much information as possible relative to the meteorology of the Pacific ocean. It is the intention of this office to commence the publication at an early date of a monthly pilot chart of the north and south Pacific oceans similar in its general plan to the pilot chart of the north Atlantic ocean, issued by this office. It is earnestly requested that reliable information relative to hurricanes in the Pacific, especially the one about to strike the Samoa Islands, be forwarded to this office, to enable us to issue a timely warning."

THE Nipisee Attract.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—No news has been received by officers of the navy department in regard to the floating of the Nipisee at Samoa. The announcement through the Associated Press that the vessel had been destroyed with a great deal of satisfaction by Secretary Tracy and the Bureau officers of the navy department.

"That's good news; that's good. I am glad to hear it," said the secretary. And his face indicated as well as his words the pleasure the tidings gave him.

Commodore Walker, chief of the bureau of intelligence, was also highly gratified at the intelligence. "That's a gain of one," said he. "If we can get her afloat and sent to Auckland and repaired it will be doing very well. I am glad to hear she has been floated. The Nipisee is a good boat—very good, one of kind." He did not think it likely that the Trenton or Vandahia could be saved, as dispatches indicated they were too badly damaged.

One by one the towns that took advantage of the Dow law are dropping back into the old rut. Places that adopted local option by popular vote have reversed their decision in the same manner, claiming that it is better to collect the liquor tax and make the dealers bear the burdens of municipal government than to have the whisky and obtain no revenue therefrom. The Dow law was given as the best temperance law Ohio could adopt, allowing townships and municipalities, where public sentiment so favored, practical prohibition. Many communities found public sentiment equal to the passage of local option but not sufficiently strong to sustain it, and liquor was sold contrary to law with impunity, and free from the tax which the third party folks so tragically denounce as "blood money." It is this state of things that shows the impracticability of national prohibition, and that after all it is public opinion that makes the law a governing measure.

SUSAN B. ANTHONY is probably not so ardent an advocate of woman's suffrage today as she was a few days ago. The women for whom she has been working so long to secure the right to vote, had that right at Lawrence, Kansas, Monday, and the worst of it was that they persistently voted against Miss Anthony's wishes. Her brother was one of the candidates for mayor of the city, and the women, who turned out to the number of four thousand and voted, voted for the other man. Of course the great advocate of woman's suffrage wanted her brother elected, but she could not induce her sisters to vote for him, nor could she consistently blame them for voting as they thought best, but woman's suffrage has undoubtedly received a back set in the mind of Susan B. Anthony.

This Kansas election is ahead in the interest of novel returns, and furnishes a sample of the exercise of the elective franchise by women. The women of other States who advocate the extension of suffrage can anticipate the fun of the thing from the experience of their Kansas sisters. At Cottonwood Falls the entire women's ticket was elected by a two-thirds majority, but in other places they were less fortunate. Wichita elected a wholesale liquor dealer for mayor, and two other liquor dealers as aldermen, a surprising result for the advocates of woman's suffrage. In many places the women voted as did their husbands; and, if this is to be followed, it will put a premium on marriage.

By the time another week rolls by both the great political parties in Ohio will be happy over the recent election. The Democrats at first hailed the result as a straw to indicate the direction of the wind. The Republicans now think it was another kind of straw and that the other fellows were trying to save themselves from drowning. And after all, what could be a happier novelty than having both parties congratulating themselves on the result?

If this spring weather continues with out cessation what will become of the fellows who annually get off something about Miss Spring coyly reclining on the shirt bosom of Old Winter.

OLEOMARGARINE is again receiving the attention of the law-makers at Columbus. It is claimed that the product goes out stamped as butter and in every way prepared to deceive the consumer. It is the imitation that needs to be stopped, and when this is done the oleomargarine business will have been stopped. Anybody will eat oleomargarine if and not know it, but nobody will eat it if they do know it.

The Senators complain that Mr. Harrison acts much as though the offices were his to give to whom he pleases. However unfortunate it is for the Senator, that is about the way the matter stands according to law.

In the Legislature exhausts the calendar by the 15th inst. the members will not have had much time to run home and do any gardening.

I told him best hope, that nothing would do me any good in this world, he insisted, and taking his hat went to the drug-store and bought me one bottle and urged me to try it, which I did. Ten days afterwards I sent for two more bottles and it was wonderful how I improved. I continued using it, and today I am quite thin than I have been in years. No

LaRue witnessed considerable changing the 1st of April—all for the better we hope.

The election in Montgomery, a Republican, resulted in the election of a Republican Treasurer and Assessor, and a Democratic Trustee.

There are three or four candidates for the post office, but don't know who will succeed or that any of them will.

The new hardware has arrived. Lang is running his store in his new room. Waples is occupying the livery stable recently purchased and Gaston & May are rapidly building a large, new one.

Gaston hitched up a team and took the Cope family to its new home of good order, and H. Mills came with a team and took a load of goods out. Thoughtful of them.

G. N. Myers says he is going to remain this summer. He will go east to do some that somebody else does the work.

There is not much sickness, but there are many complaining.

Burglars broke into Leonard's store and stole some clothing and jewelry. It is time to reload revolvers and shot guns, such bows should meet a warm reception.
